From September through May on the third Monday of the month the History at High Noon series returns to the Old School House which is adjacent to City Hall. Bring your brown bag lunch and from noon to 1pm the Historical Society will provide you with a beverage and a cookie and a great story on the history of Deerfield Beach presented by a variety of speakers who have an in-depth relationship with the history of the city.

...not the country but the original “get out for Sunday dinner, company’s comin’” china made by the Bavarian company Schulam in Arzberg Germany. When Aunt Alice died the dinnerware was given to Betty Jones, the niece of Aunt Alice. Since then, Betty

Jones has died and her daughter, Janice Stills, has become the owner of the china. Ms. Jones contacted Amy Kay Tanner, the director of the Historical Society and graciously donated it back to it’s original home. Now to the average reader this may not be all that significant but to the Bulter House lovers, this is front page, headline news and one more step toward the preservation of the fine history of this structure. Stop by for a tour one Saturday. The china will be on display shortly.

“Don’t drink and drive. Don’t even putt.”
